FRATERNAL TWINS

By Eric Berlin

In each grid, answers are placed in order starting at the top and winding their way to the bottom. The letters in each set of six spaces are the same in the corresponding spaces in the other grid, but those letters do not appear in the same order. For example, if the first grid started with the word ENIGMA, the other grid might start with the word GAME, and then the next word would begin with either IN or NI. Work back and forth, using your letter-scrambling skills, to complete both grids.
